LOCAL NEWS.

What Railroad People Are Doing.

A Few Accidents That Have Been Kept Dark.

A Queer Game Being Run on the Hills.

A Bold Clerk Steals His Employer's Wagon—Police and Constables Declare War—Both Sides Want to Run the City Court.

Everything was quiet about the depots and ticket offices yesterday. Trains arriving were somewhat behind time, but those departing got off according to schedule. News is coming in slowly of the damage by the recent rains, which has generally been repaired, but of which little could be learned in this city at the time. It is now believed that there will be no further detention.

THE ONTARIO ACCIDENT.

In its account of the accident at Ontario, Wednesday, which resulted in the death of Pierce Vaughn, a line-repairer, and the injury of four others, the San Bernardino Index of the 5th says: "As is unusually the case, no carelessness is supposed to have been employed by the company's management at this place, but the section boss was near by and Peter Connor, the track walker, whose duty it is to investigate such things, was near at hand, and neither knew of the washout. Probably the man who is morally to blame is John Maddox, who lives within 20 steps of the culvert, and, although fully aware of the washout, would not take the trouble to make the matter known to employés of the road. His negligence, whether willful or not we are unable to say, resulted in the death of Mr. Vaughn and the injuries of the others. It would have been but little trouble for him to have found either the section 'boss' or track walker, but instead of making any effort to prevent the possible loss of human life, he went quietly about his business, bent on leaving the railroad company to attend to its own affairs."

The inquest on the body of Vaughn was held by Coroner Wainright and continued two days. A large number of witnesses were examined, among them I. M. Sheridan of San Bernardino, who stated that he was roadmaster, and his jurisdiction extended over the entire California Central Railroad. Was on the train at the time of the accident. I do not know that I can blame the section foreman for negligence, but do blame him for not sending men both ways over his section, either on foot or hand-cars. I believe that he was negligent to some extent.

Maddox said he knew the break was a bad one, and the reason that he did not tell about it was that he was too sick to walk, and that he did not think it was his duty to walk to North Cucamonga and report the break.

The jury, after mature deliberation, returned the following verdict:

"We, the undersigned jurors, summoned to appear before C. C. Wainright, the Coroner of the county of San Bernardino, at San Bernardino, in said county, on this 5th day of January, 1888, to inquire into the cause of the death of P. B. Vaughn, having been duly sworn, inspected the body and heard the evidence adduced, upon our oath each and all do say: That we find the deceased was named P. B. Vaughn; that he was a native of Iowa and a resident of San Bernardino; that he was about 27 years of age, and that he came to his death on the 4th day of January, 1888, at Cucamonga, 'from the ditching of a construction train at a filling one mile west of North Cucamonga, and we find that it was caused by the carelessness of the management of the California Central Railroad Company in not taking more precaution during the storm, all of which we certify to this Inquisition." Dated this 6th day of January, 1888. Herman Marks, foreman; W. A. McFarlane, Carl Hammer, R. Poppett, C. W. Mettler, M. H. Anderson, Dan Clark, Fred Schneider and Alex Keir, Jr."

TWO ENGINES "DIED."

According to the San Bernardino Index, the railroader's lot was not a pleasant one during the rain, as the following item from that paper will illustrate: "Train No. 4, which leaves this city from San Diego at 11:30, became disabled soon after leaving East Riverside on Tuesday, and the engine 'died' as engineers express it; in fact, the engine was in such a bad condition that it lost its power completely and the engineer was compelled to let the fire die out. The train waited until another engine had been sent to its assistance, but the second engine met with the same fate as the first. By this time, the management had apparently awakened to the fact that their motive power was rather incompetent and the third engine went out with orders to bring back the 'dead train' to San Bernardino, which extraordinary feat was accomplished at about 5 o'clock in the evening. The train to San Diego then went out late as an extra section to the night train."

SAN DIEGO AND ELSINORE PROJECT.

The San Diego Sun, of the 7th, says: Govs. Merrill and Stevenson, who are among the chief promoters of the San Diego and Elsinore Railway Company, have not yet arrived, and therefore no meeting of that company has been held to act upon the propositions recently submitted by the Cuyamaca Company. The Cuyamaca Company, however, will take no hasty action in the matter, and will extend the agreed time for the answer to a reasonable limit on account of the circumstances. The two Governors are undoubtedly delayed by the difficulties of travel. Concerning the San Diego and Elsinore line, which is simply understood to be a continuation of the Salt Lake and Los Angeles project, a railway official of some prominence said to a representative of the Sun today: "You need not saddle that enterprise upon the Union Pacific Company. The Union Pacific can not stand it. The Union Pacific has all it can do to carry its end of the United States Government. At any rate its relations with the Government tie it up so closely that it could not undertake any such enterprise as this, which costs millions, and the success or failure of which would inevitably affect the value of the stock of the supporting company. The Government has three directors on the Union Pacific Board, and it is not probable these

A SERMON.

A NEW YEAR'S SERMON THAT IS WORTH READING.

Dr. Knighten on New Year's—He Gives First-of-Every-Year Reformers a Good Talking To—Fort-Street Church.

Grace M. E. Church, on First street, was well filled at the morning service New Year's, when Rev. Will E. Knighten preached his New Year's sermon on the subject, "Completeness of the Christian character, taking his text from Colossians, ii, 10: "And ye are complete in Him, which is the head of all principality and power."

The words "complete," "finished," "prepared," are common terms, and apply to the ordinary things of life. They indicate beginning, progress, completion.

The work of character-building is slow. The highest qualities are not attained at a leap, nor the best friendships made at a glance. Love at sight may exist, but it is not the best or wisest or purest love. It may be romantic because it is wild, and it may be unrequited because it is misunderstood. The grandest love of which the heart is capable springs from virtues, and grows from one to another of the noble elements of noble natures.

Paul had a deep regard for the Church of Colosse and Laodicea. He had a great conflict for them. He had doubtless prayed a New Year's prayer for them. He says "That their hearts might be comforted, being knit together in love, and unto all riches of the full assurance of understanding, to the acknowledgement of the mystery of God, and of the Father, and of Christ." "As ye have received Christ Jesus the Lord, so with ye in Him; rooted and built up in Him, and established in the faith as ye have been tonight, abounding therein with thanksgiving." He then places Christ before them as the one adorable and worshipful, possessed of all the qualities needful to human help, and for the comfort and joy of the human soul. "For in Him dwelleth all the fullness of the Godhead bodily."

The training and development of the human race has been the greatest puzzle yet discovered by science. Some place it far down the ages, and take him when he was a brainless, backboneless, stomachless mollusk floating in warm water, and trace him down to his dignified position as a full-fledged American citizen, or one who has just declared his intentions. Others take him as an ape, swinging from one limb to another, looking for a new home and seeking shelter, finally coming from the prairies of the west. Such ancestry is abominable, and such philosophy is food only for the uncultured taste of fools.

The legal training of man began with the laws of God, associated with the first sin, first murder, first idolatry, and first lie and first death. From Patriarch to Moses, from Moses to Christ, and from Christ's birth to His cross, man was arraigned before the law. This is true to this day. The moral side of man was always his weak side, and from the legal man had to be led to the moral duties. So man was taken through the ordinances and rites till reverence, duty, obedience and truth could be impressed upon him. So he was taught of God. His spiritual nature was led from its bondage. Christ taught the soul the true spiritual nature of God. "He is a spirit." "All who worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth." All other service is lip and mouth. It is affectation, as a "sounding brass." We recognize this law of training now. Sullivan attracts more attention in Europe with the muscle of his right arm than Blaine with his brains. Buffalo Bill as a rider beats Oscar Wilde with all hisesthetics.

We recognize the truth that all students have work to perform as a part of society. Duty is before ability. One is privilege, the other is power. Men, who are to do the highest quality of work have the most severe tasks. To do the work of a Christian, man must have the nature, mind, purpose and will of Christ. Some think church work is merely social, done for a minister. Christ says: "We are co-laborers with Him—with God." This is our primary relation to Him. Partners, helpers, heirs, joint heirs. On this rests soul communion with Christ. Here rests all the grander fields of human thought. Here He places before us His own image. He is then "formed in us the hope of glory." The model is a perfect one. It is infinite perfection. Too deep for comprehension. In order to resist sin He gives the soul internal help and becomes its guide.

Here is aspiration. Every voice of Christ from every point of trial and up to every great victory comes in to renew and invigorate and bless.

New Year's resolutions are not virtues. Men resolve year after year to do and be better. Circumstances are causes of resolutions. Inflamed eyes, broken noses, headaches, and empty pockets, and lost positions or lost friends will wake up resolves. So circumstances will break them. A change of nature, a new list of virtues, friends, with new far-reaching plans, heaven-born and God-given will bind a good resolution.

Christ is the only author of Christian faith. It must be centered in Him. It must be like His and be acted upon as He acted.

George McDonald says: "God never gave a man a thing to do concerning which it were irreverent to ponder how the Son of God would have done it."

A. W. Hare says: "A Christian is God Almighty's gentleman."

Young says: "A Christian is the highest style of man."

Froude says: "Human improvement is from within, outward. Every one of us, whatever our speculative opinions, knows better than he practices, and recognizes a better law than he obeys."

This grandest of all models is before and above us. He ever calls us to be His followers, and to be like Him. His work is to uplift us. He is to prepare us for the final presentation to the Father, a public recognition of our worthiness, when He will not be ashamed of us. If He could come into our prayer meeting and see our poor work for Him, as He did His disciples, He would be embarrassed. He would say, "Oh, ye of little faith." He would pray for us. He would bear with us. He would teach us.

As the finisher He will not let us go, making us purer as He is pure, wiser as He is wise, happier as He is happy. He will at last let angel chariots and flaming wings come beneath our weary feet, and give us the rest of the people of God. "We shall then be satisfied when we awake in His likeness, for we shall see Him as He is."

FORT-STREET CHURCH.

Another Big Audience—Standing-Room Only—The Sermon.

Fort-street Methodist Episcopal Church is now getting to be such a popular place of worship that for several weeks past the tin sign "Standing-room only," has been displayed at the door before the service has commenced. This was the case yesterday morning, and as a result, before the text had been announced by Dr. Cantine, the pastor, several hundred people had been turned from the doors.

After the morning lesson had been read, the pastor announced that during the coming week social services would be held in the church, and that the Board of Trustees would meet this afternoon for the transaction of important business.

The subject of the sermon by Dr. Cantine for the morning services was "The Bible," yesterday being the day set apart for services in aid of the Bible Society. The text was taken from the twelfth Psalm, sixth verse. From this text the pastor delivered an eloquent sermon, reviewing the work of Christianity and the Bible from the days of the Reformation. The efforts as made by its enemies during the dark ages, its history as connected with the onward march of civilization, and its great [illegible]ht in the councils of nations today, [illegible] considered and pointed out by the speaker. The sermon closed by [illegible]he great good done by the [illegible]an urgent appeal to the [illegible]t all the assistance

RIVERSIDE.

An Interesting Sketch of Its Founding and Growth.

[Riverside Chronicle.]

Less than 18 years ago this vast district of town and orchard was a wilderness. The spot on which the town now stands had at one time a very different destiny in store for it. From the time of the Mexican War in 1848 down to 1868 it had passed through a number of different hands, and at the latter period was the property of the Los Angeles Land Company, who, however, made no use of it. In the following year an association known as the California Silk Center Association was formed in Los Angeles, and a portion of the Jurupa rancho, 3169 acres in extent, lying on the east side of the Santa Ana River, was purchased for their operations. The scheme came to nothing, and a few months after the articles of incorporation were filed the association sold this tract of land to some parties for the purpose of settling it with a colony, to engage in the cultivation of semi-tropic fruit. Before buying, these parties had gone over all the land lying west of the Santa Ana River to the sea, and could find nothing to suit them, either on account of the danger of litigation or of unfitness of soil. Finally they fell in with T. W. Cover, one of the directors of the Silk Center Association, who induced them to come over here and examine the tract belonging to that association. The colonists were so pleased with it that they determined upon buying, and on the 14th day of September, 1870, they took over all the land and franchises of the Silk Center Association, and Riverside came into existence.

The purchasers at once formed themselves into an association called the Southern California Colony Association, the names of the original stockholders in which were C. N. Felton, T. Luther, N. J. Clark, Henry Hamilton, Barbara Childs, Sarah F. Clark, W. P. Brink, T. W. Cover, John H. Stewart, Dudley Pine, W. J. Lenville, J. W. North, John Brodhurst and James P. Greves. These were the founders of Riverside. There was some little debate among them as to the name to be given the new colony. Some were in favor of Jurupa, but it was finally decided to give it that title which it bears at present.

It may be of interest to state that the first building erected here was the company's office, afterward used as a portion of J. W. North's residence, and that in it were held the first religious services of Riverside. The first merchant to start in business was Mr. E. Ames.

For some time the little colony had its struggles and discouragements. Every drop of water used by the colonists during the first 10 months had to be hauled from the river in barrels, a distance of one mile. Grasshoppers devastated the newly planted trees and vines, fully one-half of them being destroyed. Matters in the early days seemed unpromising for future success, but the plucky settlers were not the "stuff dreams are made of" and held on bravely through all discouragement. Additions were made to their number, new trees and vines were set out and by degrees a firm footing was obtained and the future of the new city became assured.

In the fall of 1874 the Southern California Colony Association became merged into the Riverside Land and Irrigation Company, in which Mr. S. Carey Evans secured a controlling interest. Previous to this change the first of the Riverside canals had been built by the Southern California Colony Association. Its cost was $60,000 and it was an insignificant affair compared with what it became in later days when the Riverside Land and Irrigation Company had enlarged its length and capacity. The new company set about improving the canals and laying out the land with vigor. Their whole tract was surveyed under the superintendence of Messrs. C. C. Miller and O. Newman, into 10-acre lots independent of streets and avenues; the old canal was widened from 12 to 20 feet and extended five miles down the valley, and the new canal was commenced. Magnolia avenue was laid out and other important improvements inaugurated, which were carried on and added to until the city began to assume a skeleton semblance of its present state.

The City Water.

There having been so much complaint lately about the impurity of the city water, the owners of the Schumacher tract determined to give their customers something better, and have been most fortunate in obtaining an abundant supply of the pure article, which will be piped to every lot free of cost, thus making lots in this tract the most desirable and cheapest in the market, being on a car line, only 30 minutes' ride from First street, with high elevation and every convenience. Price $400 and upward. Terms easy. Bradshaw & Zellner, agents, room 25, 33 South Spring street.

THE real-estate sales in San Diego county for the five days ending the 6th inst. amounted to $580,666. San Diego is playing a very good second to Los Angeles.

THE Los Angeles agent for Oakland has reported home that he expects to get a crowd of 24 excursionists together shortly and charter a special car. It seems as if these northern sections have very little results to show for the work and money invested.

THE San Francisco papers boast that the real estate sales in that city for September last, amounted to $3,250,000 —the largest for 11 years. The sales for that month in Los Angeles were $9,872,948, and in July they were over $12,000,000.

MOST new towns in Southern California make a feature of excluding saloons, as an inducement to families to locate. Coronado Beach goes to the other extreme. The hotel there will have the finest saloon in the world, with 20 men behind the bar.

THE case against the deserting sailors at San Diego was dismissed by the Justice, on the ground that sailors on coastwise vessels are not liable to prosecution for desertion. The Shipowners' Association in San Francisco is disgusted, and will probably take some action in the matter.

FROM the Boston Globe we learn that the big northern advertising scheme, already referred to in THE TIMES, is a project of the San Francisco Examiner, which proposes to issue 1,000,000 copies of a free magazine supplement to that paper descriptive of California.

VICE-PRESIDENT SMITH of the Atchison system of railroads is expected in San Bernardino shortly, and the Courier hopes that he will spare enough time from the Santa Fé boom towns to regulate what is claimed to be a system of discrimination against San Bernardino.

THE Persian Empire, which arrived at San Francisco last week, with a cargo of coal from Australia, received special telegraphic permission from the Secretary of the Treasury to proceed to San Diego to discharge her cargo. The Santa Fé people will, therefore, soon have all the coal they want.

THE Southern Pacific Company has discharged every passenger conductor on the three divisions between El Paso and New Orleans and promoted freight conductors to their places. No cause was assigned, but those who are at all conversant with such matters will have no trouble in guessing that these gentlemanly conductors were getting rich a little too fast.

PIXLEY'S paper don't seem to be as much appreciated by the public as he thinks it deserves. In a recent number of The Argonaut he states that after 10 years' laborious effort he has succeeded in obtaining a circulation of less than 11,000 copies—he is careful not to say how many less—and intimates that he looks for support and approval to the American sentiment of the country, failing which, The Argonaut will cease publication. It seems to us that the egotistical hero of the tale is in danger of confounding the American nation with the so-called "American party," in the same way that he confounds the American party with Frank Pixley.

Results of Multiplying Great Cities.

There is a growing tendency in this country toward city life. It is the ambition of the American youth, who has grown up in the country, to exchange the simplicity of rural life for the more exciting experiences of the metropolis. This is a fast age. We live more in a generation than our fathers did in three or four generations. In this era of the telegraph and telephone; of the railroad and the daily newspaper, there is more activity compressed into a single year of our existence than there was formerly into half a lifetime. Isolation is coming to be a thing almost impossible, and the world is growing very small when its continents are bound together by electric cables, and distances annihilated by the swift steamer and the iron horse.

This tendency toward metropolitan life, and the massing of humanity in great cities has its effect upon civilization. There is less simplicity in living and a greater leaning towards luxury. But there is also a correspondingly greater increase in culture, a more rapid advancement in science, literature and art. The only great danger to America in the rapid growth of her cities is the peril arising from the constant accession of foreigners to their population, with sentiments and principles not at all in accord with those of our national institutions. They are unassimilated citizens, massed together and propagating political heresies dangerous to the common weal. If this foreign element could largely be disposed of in the rural districts, where it could not foster agitation and where industrious habits would more likely be engendered, its presence with us would not be such a continual menace to the peace and well-being of society. It is only in great cities like Chicago and New York that anarchy has any hope of securing a foothold. The gospel of unrestrained violence no man with ordinary common sense would think of promulgating with any hope of success outside of busy and populous centers. It is in these that it seeks to intrench itself and to gain strength for conflict. Here, in the byways and slums of the city, this heterogeneous element masses itself to plot and scheme against the liberties of the Republic. Amid the multitudinous life of the city it may work secretly. It can gather to itself the lawless and vicious element; it can secure, by specious reasoning, the ignorant and superstitious; it can appeal to blind and unreasoning prejudice, and to the passions of the unprincipled multitude. In the whole history of civilization there is no instance of a country in such danger from these sources as our own.

There must be a remedy sought for and applied that will be sufficient to counteract and control these dangers. The lesson which Chicago has taught the Anarchists was a needed lesson. But it is only one of the methods to which Americans must resort in controlling the turbulence of the vicious elements in the cities of the country. They must also be reached by education, by philanthropy and by Christianity, and, if possible, good citizens must be made out of the children of the ignorant aliens who come here hating everything that savors of republican freedom. But it is far more difficult to reach them when thus massed together in populous cities than in smaller communities. Lawlessness gathers force from numbers. Crime strengthens crime, and the outlaw is bold when he can rally a large support in his defiance of law. Rapidly-growing cities must always look for large accessions to their vicious element, and it is this that makes them danger-centers when taken in connection with the fact that they are the rallying ground of anarchy and an unassimilated mixed population, unfamiliar and at war with the principles of our Government.

Special to the Examiner.]

PALERMO, January 5.—Jay Gould's yacht Atalanta sailed today for Messina.

It will be observed that it takes just 30 words of head-line to introduce an eight-word dispatch, giving to an expectant world the all-important information that Mr. Gould's yacht has left one Italian port for another, 100 miles distant. It is possible that a majority of the Examiner's readers enjoy this sort of slush, but if they do their intellects must be constructed on a very narrow-gauge plan.

THE New York Evening Post has been printing a series of letters from Southern California. In the latest letter the correspondent combats the idea that our boom is likely to burst, and shows that, while it started as a boom, it is now a solid progress, founded on facts. He says:

Now, the boom in Southern California, concering which I am so often questioned, began by being a real, bona fide, old-fashioned boom, such as we have all seen in mining stocks and cotton futures and railway securities. It grew by what it fed on—man's credulity and love of profits, quick and sudden, and so unreal that they mostly existed on paper. But the great outside public came into the speculator's fold, and before the speculators were aware of the fact the public was stronger than they, and has been ever since. The boom brought the people, and now the people make, and uphold, and increase the boom.

THE public schools of the country are the hope of the Republic. Every year greater attention is given by the leading educators of the country to the best methods of instruction to be made use of in our schools. There is now a very general feeling among them in favor of the introduction of industrial training in connection with the usual course of study. It is claimed that the effect of this training is generally good. Greater interest is awakened in the minds of the children in their duties, and as much or more mental work is accomplished under this new departure as before its introduction. The pupils in the schools of Chicago, Philadelphia and other cities where manual training is a part of the prescribed course, average higher in all departments of study than do the pupils of the schools where only the mental capacities of the scholars are considered. The age is learning that nothing is lost in educating the whole man.

AT last, one sensible man has come from the north and told the truth about Southern California. E. W. Maslin of Sacramento, who was recently in Los Angeles with the Placer county exhibit of citrus fruits, writes as follows to the Record-Union:

It is dimcult, except by personal inspection, to give an adequate conception of the fertility and resources of that wonderful portion of the State. It is useless and idiotic to characterize the southern portion of the State as barren, or unsusceptible of general cultivation. We might as well look the matter squarely in the face, and admit that the future of Los Angeles and San Diego and San Bernardino counties is assured, and that there is no limit to their progress. We often hear it said that the immigration pouring into the Los Angeles district will find its way north. I do not believe it, unless efforts are made.

Will the Sacramento Bee please make a note of the above?

A CORRESPONDENT of the San Bernardino Courier describes a wonderfully rich gold discovery in Blackhawk Mountain, a spur of the San Bernardino range, near Victor. If one-tenth of the reported rich mining strikes came within 10 per cent. of the expectations of the discoverers, gold and silver would not today be worth 10 per cent. of their present value. The trouble is that prospectors are proverbially sanguine and easily excited over a discovery of mineral, from which they select the richest piece for assay. Then, again, many veins have a most unfortunate habit of pinching out, within a short distance of the surface. If it were not so, gold and silver would no longer be precious metals.

A PRELIMINARY test of the great Lick telescope, on Mt. Hamilton, was made on Saturday evening, and it was found to work very satisfactorily. We may soon expect some interesting discoveries to be made by the aid of this wonderful lens, which will have a power of diving deeper into unfathomable space than any telescope hitherto constructed. Yet, however far it may aid the vision to range, resolving what now appear as nebulæ into stars, there will be seen, on the confines of the great beyond, further masses of nebulous matter, which still greater telescopes, yet to be constructed, will in turn resolve into stars. It is no more possible for our finite minds to comprehend the infinite scale upon which the universe is built than it would be to put a bushel of wheat into a peck measure.

PASADENA GAMBLERS.

They Have Captured That Place in Spite of the People.

The good people of Pasadena are in a state of excitement over the advent into their garden city of a lot of Los Angeles gamblers. Gamblers, blacklegs and sure-thing men have flocked to Southern California from all over the State. They look upon Los Angeles as a gambler's paradise, and as near as can be learned they are making money hand over fist. One of the leading games on Main street, that has been running less than three years, in a couple of little rooms that rent for about $30 per month, is making so much money that its proprietor is reported to have refused $60,000 for his stand. But the gambler has a dash of human nature in his composition, so he has a strong desire to gather in all the money he can get his hands on. For that reason he reaches out, and after doing up Santa Monica he has extended his enterprise to Pasadena, and now the people of that place are at a loss to know what to do with him. They are trying to get their peace officers to take steps against the gamblers, but Los Angeles gamblers have a funny little way about them which seems to have a most soothing effect on the average officer.

The New Year's edition of the Los ANGELES TIMES, 20 pages, is an especially fine one. The business of this portion of the State is reviewed in a fair way, and a synopsis of the progress made by the different sections of Southern California is given. THE TIMES deserves credit for the splendid work done.

Gov. Waterman's Method of Ousting a State Official.

Brilliant Base-ball between the Browns and Giants —An Insane Celestial's Singular Acrobatic Performances—Freezing Weather at Riverside —San Francisco's Smallpox Bulletin.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—[By the Associated Press.] Chief Crowley has received a telegram from the Marshal of Butte City, Mont., stating that Simon Hamberg has been arrested there and will be held there pending the arrival of an officer from San Francisco. Hamberg is wanted for complicity in a swindle whereby F. M. Parker, a ranchman from Oregon, was fleeced out of about $11,000 in this city. Pilcher and Neushaldt, his confederates, were arrested in this city on Saturday and are now in custody.

In 1884 James T. Courtenay came to this city from Santa Clara county, where he owned a ranch worth $6000. This he offered to trade for good San Francisco property, and Hamberg called on him in company with Pilcher, the present co-defendant, and offered in exchange for the ranch the same piece of property through which the Parker fraud was perpetrated. The exchange was in time concluded, when Courtenay discovered the fraud. Hamberg straightway signed a deed to the ranch over to a druggist of this city and did his best to make a sale to some third party for cash. Courtenay's counsel filed a bill in the Santa Clara Court to set aside the sale and deed and restore the property to Courtenay, which was granted. During the recent boom in San Diego land Hamberg opened an office there and professed to sell valuable lots in that city for a nominal price. He asked in every instance a fee of $2 in advance for recording a deed. Chief of Police Crowley, knowing the man's character, telegraphed to San Diego to discover the nature of the land offered for sale, and received a reply that the property was utterly worthless. The police hope to be able to convict the swindlers, who have for years made large amounts of money by defrauding countrymen out of their homes and property.

A NIMBLE CELESTIAL.

Officer Parrott was astonished this afternoon to see a Chinaman drop from a roof over a fourth floor building, catch on the joss-house balcony and drop again, to stop on a tea sign and thence swing to the ground, having come the full length of a block over the housetops. The officer had barely time to understand the nature of the proceedings when the man sprang to his feet and unsheathed a large cheese knife. The officer rushed upon him, and after a brief struggle secured the knife. He was unable, however, to hold the prisoner, and dropping on all fours, the Chinaman made off, running like a dog and barking viciously. To ascertain the facts the officers started at once in pursuit, and, after a long chase, succeeding in running him into the Chinese theater, where he was captured. He found that it was Yon Chow. The prize climber and runner was taken to the City Prison, and thence to the Home for Inebriates, to await an examination for insanity.

DEATH OF GEN. SEAWELL.

Gen. Washington Seawell died at his apartments, in the Berkshire Hotel this morning. His disease was enlargement of the liver, which, combined with weight of years, caused his death. He leaves only two relatives, his sons, Bulli W. and J. M. Seawell, who will inherit the bulk of his large fortune. He was born in Virginia in 1802, graduated from West Point in 1825 and entered active service as brevet second lieutenant in the Seventh Infantry.

BREAKING THE RECORD.

At Harbor View Park, this afternoon, John Utschig of the California Schultzen Club broke the Pacific Coast record in target shooting, making in four shots a score of 96 out of a possible 100, as follows: 23, 24, 24 and 25. The score was made while engaged in pool shooting, and has never been equalled in the West.

SMALLPOX.

A Chinaman who died from smallpox was found in Chinatown today. The authorities ordered his immediate burial. A young mulatto suffering with the disease was removed to the pesthouse.

ASPHYXIATED.

Paul Kingston was found dead in bed in a lodging-house in this city last night, having been asphyxiated by gas, from turning the key of the gas jet too far around.

PANIC AMONG GAMBLERS.

Twelve policemen raided a gambling den last night, capturing 18 colored and five white men. Seven escaped through a back window. One is believed to have been seriously injured.

STOLEN SMOKE.

The store of H. Rosenthal, tobacconist, was entered early this morning and a case of 100 red felt Turkish smoking caps, 150 imported meerschaum pipes and about 25 pounds of the finest quality of Turkish and Russian cigarette tobacco were taken.

NOTED KNIGHT TEMPLAR DEAD.

C. W. Beach, a member of the former Board of Education, died last Saturday at Monrovia, Los Angeles county. The remains will arrive on Tuesday, and be met at the Sixteenth-street station, Oakland, by Golden Gate Commandery, No. 16, Knights Templar, and George H. Thomas Post, G.A.R. The body will be taken to the residence of Judge Yule.

BASE-BALL.

The Browns Defeat the Giants in a Close Game.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—[By the Associated Press.] The St. Louis Browns and New York Giants played one of the best games ever seen on the California diamond, at the Haight-street grounds, today. It was the first of a series of three games between the two clubs. The penetrating cold weather had no effect on the crowd, which filled the grounds. The game was a close one throughout. Brilliant plays were general, and base hits very few. Runs were fewer. The only one made was in the second inning, when Dave Foutz cantered over the plate. The fielding of both teams was of the finest character, and Richardson carried off the honors. King pitched a masterly game, striking out seven of the New Yorkers, and holding them down to one hit of a very scratch character. Van Haltern and Brown were the battery for the Gothamites, the Browns succeeding in getting but six scattering hits off the former's delivery. Score: St. Louis, 1; New Yorks, 0.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—Philadelphia, 9; Chicago, 8.

WILLING TO SETTLE.

A Delinquent Manager Ready to Make Good His Shortage.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—[By the Associated Press.] I. R. Burns, who formerly managed the affairs of the late Orrin Judson's estate in Santa Clara county, in reply to an article in a morning paper of this city today, stated that it was true he owed the Judson estate, but had offered to compromise by paying $5000 in gold coin himself, besides giving $25,000 worth of property, which his father-in-law Whitney offered to give, the latter having held Judson's power of attorney during his life. The executors of the estate refused the offer, so Burns was forced to make an assignment. His assets over all liabilities are $20,000, so he will be able to pay all debts in full.

DISPOSSESSED.

Gov. Waterman Suddenly Decapitates a State Official.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—[By the Associated Press.] P. A. Finegan, who last January was appointed one of the 12 directors of the State Board of Agriculture, and who qualified before Notary Hamill of this city two days after, was much surprised by a telegram from Sacramento stating that Gov. Waterman had appointed Dennis Feskins of Rockland in his stead, on the ground that Finegan never qualified. The latter said tonight that he could not account for such a proceeding unless his oath of office filed at Sacramento had been stolen away, as he had documents to show that he was properly qualified. He proposes to test the matter in the courts.

Rich Gold Find.

VICTOR, Jan. 8.—It is reported that a gold discovery has been made in the Blackhawk Mountain by O. G. Leach, one of the original discoverers of Bodie, and J. B. Cook. The find is said to be a ledge nearly two miles in length, with ore chimneys carrying free gold of from $10 to $50 a ton. The ledge is from 10 to 30 feet wide.

BERNAL.

The Reported Death of the Bandit Confirmed—His Career of Crime—Convicts to Hunt Down His Band.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—[By the Associated Press.] A telegram in Spanish, dated Conlaicon, January 6th, received here by W. Loaiza from Gen. Francisco Canada, Governor of Sinaloa, confirms the reported death of Bernal. The bandit was born in the State of Sinaloa of poor parents. He received a fair education. Little is known of him until the revolution of 1877, when Col. Ramirez captured Mazatlan, holding the city several days, when Ramirez was overpowered and shot. Bernal was a lieutenant in Ramirez's regiment, but escaped and disappeared until eight years ago, when he became the leader of a band of robbers operating in the Sinaloa Mountains, from which time he has terrorized an extensive territory in the State of Sinaloa, Durango, Zacatecas and Jalisco, having his strongholds in the fastnesses of the Sierra Madres.

CONVICTS FITTED AGAINST BANDITS.

NOGALES (Ariz.), Jan. 8.—Northern Sonora bandits have been chased by troops into the State of Chihuahua and the Governor will at once send a body of troops to the place where the bandits crossed the line. A large number of convicts from the Guadalajara penitentiary have been sent to Cosala to fight the remainder of Bernal's band.

WATERS POLLUTED.

El Paso's Sewerage Stirs Up International Trouble.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—[By the Associated Press.] An El Paso special to the Examiner says: The city has just completed what is known as the Waring system of sewerage, and which empties into the Rio Grande about two miles below town. The City Council of Paso del Norte has drawn up a complaint, alleging that the El Paso system is laid through land belonging to Mexico, although on this side of the Rio Grande, which has changed its channel; that the river is an international boundary, to the waters of which each country has an equal right, but which neither may pollute, and that the owners along the banks have ripalian rights to the water in its original purity. This complaint was forwarded to the Governor of Chihuahua, and by him to the national Government at the City of Mexico. Señor Mariscal then obtained a statement from the Mexican consul in El Paso, and has forwarded the paper and instructions to Minister Romero at Washington to lay before Secretary Bayard.

Street Railways in Tacoma.

TACOMA (Wash.), Jan. 8.—The first street railroad in Tacoma, now being constructed on Pacific avenue, will be finished during the present month. Nelson Bennett and associates received the franchise. The motive power will be electricity. Yesterday a franchise to operate an electric street railway from the center of the city southward to Oakes's addition, three miles distant, was granted by the City Council to Radebaugh and others.

A Concession Renewed.

NOGALES (Ariz.), Jan. 8.—Secretary of State Manuel Romero Rubio of the City of Mexico, on the part of the Mexican Government, and John Frisbie, a former California banker and real-estate owner of Napa county, representing the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, have signed articles extending the concession for two years of the above-named company, from January 1, 1888.

Truckee Topics.

TRUCKEE, Jan. 8.—Constable Upson of Reno arrested James W. Simmons here tonight on charge of grand larceny committed in 1860.

The thermometer last night was 23° below zero.

Two hundred freight cars arrived to-day. There are not enough engines to handle the business.

Cold California Weather.

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 8.—The lowest temperature, 26°, was at sunrise this morning. A thorough examination shows no damage to the orange crop.

FT. JONES, Jan. 8.—The thermometer 6° below zero this morning.

YREKA, Jan. 8.—The thermometer is 7½° below.

Another Mexican Volcano.

NOGALES (Ariz.), Jan. 8.—San Martin Peak, in the State of Vera Cruz, Mexico, has been belching forth dense smoke for some time, and it is thought the mountain will become an immense volcano.

Assaulted and Robbed.

TUCSON (Ariz.), Jan. 8.—Judge William Lovell was assaulted last night by robbers on his way home. His skull was fractured, and he was robbed of $70. He is in a critical condition.

Garroted.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 8.—This evening a young man named Ed Lucks was garroted on the street by two men. The robbers placed a pistol to his head, secured a silver watch, gold chain, charm and $91. There is no clew.

UNDER HIS NOSE.

Thieves Go Through the Sidewalk and Capture $500 Worth of Stuff.

Some time during Saturday night thieves entered the Exchange saloon, at No. 12 Requena street, and succeeded in getting away with about $500 worth of stock and coin. They succeeded in kicking a hole through the plate glass on the sidewalk and let themselves down through the hole. People and police officers are passing up and down Requena street almost every hour, and the thieves got in and then escaped with their arms loaded with boodle. The police were notified, but they wanted a list of the stolen goods and the thieves made their escape.

WASHINGTON:

Secretary Lamar Hands in His Resignation.

The President Accepts It in a Saccharine Epistle,

And Hopes the Senate Will Deal Kindly with the Secretary.

Programme of the Work Before Congress During the Coming Week—Springer Thinks the Territories Have Prospects of Speedy Statehood.

By Telegraph to The Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—[By the Associated Press.] Secretary Lamar yesterday tendered to the President his resignation as Secretary of the Interior, and it was accepted. His formal resignation, it is understood, will not go into effect until noon of Tuesday next. The following is a copy of the letter of resignation and the President's reply:

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.

Mr. President: When, some months ago, you invited me to accept a judgeship in the Supreme Court, you expressed a wish that, as the court was not in session, I should postpone the resignation of my present office until the meeting of Congress allowed you to send my nomination to the Senate, and, as there were certain matters before the department inaugurated by me which it was desirable I should close before leaving, and as I would have been very reluctant to take the place upon the bench until your nomination had been confirmed by the Senate, I cheerfully consented to your request. My nomination has now been submitted to the Senate, and recognizing both their right and duty to subject its fitness to the most critical examination, I would still wait in my present position pending their decision; but I think I am warranted in supposing that the final decision may be delayed some time.

As you have at the same time nominated my successor in this department and his successor in the Postoffice Department, this delay may to some extent embarrass the administration of public business in the departments mentioned. To avoid such embarrassment and to leave before the Senate in its final judgment upon my nomination the sole question of my fitness for the position disassociated from any other nomination and unaffected by any other considerations, I now respectfully ask you to accept my resignation as Secretary of the Interior, which I hereby tender. In terminating my relations to you as a member of your official family I desire to express a grateful sense of the obligations I am under to you personally for your consideration and kindness, which have always characterized your treatment of me, and for the generous confidence and support which you steadily have given me in the trying and arduous administration of this department. I shall always be proud to have been associated with the honorable record you will leave upon the page of your country's history.

Sincerely, L. Q. C. LAMAR.

THE PRESIDENT'S REPLY.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, January 7.

My Dear Mr. Lamar: When I determined to nominate you to a position upon the Supreme Court, the personal gratification afforded by a tender to you of so honorable and suitable a place, and the satisfactory conviction that the important executive duty would be performed well, led me almost to forget that my action involved the loss of your conscientious and valuable aid and service in the Cabinet councils which for nearly three years I have so much enjoyed and appreciated. Your note today forces me to contemplate this contingency with profound and sincere regret, but since I know that the separation you now insist upon arises from that conception of public duty which has always so entirely guided your conduct in our official relation, I am constrained to accept the resignation you tender, hoping that it is only an anticipation of your entrance upon the discharge of higher and more congenial functions than those now relinquished. What I have thus far written seems very formal indeed. I intended this, because I am sure the close confidence and relations of positive affection which have grown up between us need no expression or interpretation; and yet I find it utterly impossible for me to finish this note without assuring you that the things which have characterized your conduct and bearing in the position from which you now retire—all your devotion to your country and your chiefs, your self-sacrificing care and solicitation for the public interest, all the benefit which your official services have conferred upon your fellow countrymen, and all the affection and kindness so often exhibited toward me personally, I shall constantly remember with tenderness and gratitude.

Yours very sincerely,
GROVER CLEVELAND.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Business to Come Before Congress This Week.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—[By the Associated Press.] The Education Bill is the Senate's unfinished business for tomorrow. It is likely to remain so during the week. An effort will probably be made by some Senators, not members of the Judiciary Committee, to reach an understanding in the Lamar case, should the committee not act upon it tomorrow, as they are tired of receiving and answering letters of inquiry and advice on the subject, and desirous of having the matter out anyway.

It is not expected that any measure of great public interest will come before the House this week. A great many bills introduced last Wednesday have not yet been printed, and the more important committees have little as yet to consider and nothing to report. Monday will be devoted to the introduction of bills, but no general tariff bill, formulated to meet the views of the majority, will be presented.

HOPE FOR THE TERRITORIES.

Springer, chairman of the Committee on Territories, today said: "Very probably enabling acts will be passed for some Territories; that is, we may pass acts enabling some Territories to adopt State constitutions and construct the machinery of State governments, preparatory to recognition as States."

"The admission of a new State is a very important matter, and cannot be done on mere application or on an arithmetical basis. Somehow the impression has got abroad that a Territory must have a certain population to qualify it for admission. There is no law and no custom about it. The admission of a new State is entirely a matter of legislative discretion. It is within the power of Congress to erect 'No-Man's-Land' into a State and admit it to the Union. The State of Illinois was admitted when she had less than 40,000 people. Dakota has over 600,000. Congress in its discretion may exclude Dakota and may admit 'No-Man's-Land.'"

"This has been his only vocation. A stepdaughter, named Belita, lived with Polito, in the capacity of housekeeper, and at times, when he was absent, cared for the goats and sheep. On the evening of Tuesday, the 27th ult., Polito left home for a ranch at some distance, informing Belita that he would return on the following night. He bade her good-bye, telling her to take good care of the flocks, and, if a storm should come on, to herd them on the lee side of the valley, close to the hut, which was quite a sheltered spot.

THE LAST FAREWELL.

"He kissed his hand to the girl as he rode off on his mustang. She was then standing in the door of the hut and a happy smile was on her face. He never saw her alive again. Early on the following evening Polito returned home. When he approached the hut he expected to see Belita, but was disappointed. Thinking perhaps that she had allowed the herd to wander farther away than usual, he entered his humble home, and, after partaking of a light repast, rolled himself in his blankets, and, being, as he afterward said, very tired, the old man was soon fast asleep. The next morning he awoke and was astonished to find himself alone in the hut. Where was Belita? He arose quickly and at once started out to search for her. He spent the whole day looking for the poor girl, but without success. The following morning he started for Oak Grove and there told of her disappearance. A searching party was immediately organized and a systematic search was instituted.

BELITA'S CORPSE.

"They returned first to the hut, and then started to go over the ground thoroughly. In a clump of bushes about three miles away they discovered the body of Belita. She had been shot through the breast, the ball passing clear through the body. From an examination of the ground in the vicinity, it was evident she had been killed some little distance away, and the body had been dragged to the bushes within which it was found for the purpose of concealing the crime. Nothing was found that would throw any light upon the cause for the commission of the murder, or upon its perpetrator.

A QUEER OFFICIAL.

"A resident of Julian who was in the vicinity of the murder the day following its discovery, and saw the corpse, said this morning that he had endeavored to have a justice of the peace hold an inquest and investigation into the cause of the crime, but that official had declined, as 'it was only an Indian woman,' and he had not the time to look the matter up. 'I am afraid our section will get rather a bad name after a while,' added the gentleman. 'There has never been any real effort made to clear up the mystery of that murder committed on Warner's ranch last summer.'

"The murder to which reference was made was that of William Blair, whose dead body was found in the woods near Warner's ranch last July. Ridley was first accused of the crime, but it was found that he was entirely guiltless, and no further effort was made, apparently, to discover the real perpetrator."

POOR BELITA.

A Young Mexican Girl Murdered in Cold Blood.

The San Diego Sun of last Saturday has brought to light a most mysterious murder. It says:

"Intelligence has just been received in this city of a mysterious murder that was committed between Warner's ranch and Oak Grove more than two weeks since. Owing to the want of telegraphic and rail communication, and the very uncertain movements of the mails during the winter months, the section of San Diego county where this crime was committed might, so far as the obtaining of news is concerned, be on the other side of the continent. The country is thinly settled, quite mountainous, and during more than a week a fierce snowstorm has been raging, which has rendered the roads well nigh impassable.

"A letter was received by District Attorney Copeland from Robert Gunn, a resident of Warner's ranch, stating that a Mexican woman who had been engaged in herding sheep near there, had been murdered, and requesting him to have the officers look into the matter.

POLITO AND HIS STEPDAUGHTER.

"From other sources a Sun reporter gathered some further particulars. In a small adobe hut, situated in a little valley, near Oak Grove, there lives a Mexican named Polito Escalilet, but who was known by the settlers in the vicinity as 'Chihuahua.' He owned a small piece of land, on which the hut is situated, and quite a flock of sheep and goats, which roam about the neighborhood, and he has for years passed his time in tending them.

THE SUBTLE FLUID.

[San Diego Sun.]

About 2 o'clock this afternoon, Charles A. Wetmore, with a companion, was driving along Fourth street in a buggy. When just opposite the Sun office the animal was seen to stop and drop to the earth, as though he had been shot. His legs quivered, and there was a slight tremor of the head as he lay extended on the ground.

It was at first thought the horse was suffering from an attack of blind staggers, but it was soon found that he had sustained an electric shock.

A telephone wire had been stretched from the Fairre building to the west side of Fourth street and rested on top of the large wire that carries the current for propelling the rapid transit cars. As the horse passed along his head came in contact with the small wire with the result stated. As an employé of the the telephone company was pulling the wire across the street, the end touched upon the rail of the electric road, causing sparks to scintillate in all directions, and burning the wire up as if it had been paper.

The horse was finally got upon his feet and driven off. He appeared greatly exhausted, but was apparently uninjured. Mr. Wetmore fortunately did not take hold of the wire, as he at first attempted to do, or the result might have been disastrous.

San Diego's Wonderful Growth.

[San Bernardino Index.]

The New Year's edition of the San Diego Union demonstrates very forcibly the marvelous growth of that city during the year just closed. The following is a brief summary of the figures given: The amount of freight arriving by land and sea during 1887 was 145,000 tons, as compared with 43,000 tons in 1886; 82,500 passengers arrived by land and sea during the year, and 22,000 in 1886; the number of ships arriving in the harbor during 1887 was 1500, and during 1886 350; 158,000,000 feet of lumber arrived in 1887, while in 1886 but 38,000,000 arrived and in 1885 15,000,000. The value of buildings erected in San Diego and vicinity was $6,000,000 in 1887 and $1,250,000 in 1886. The assessed valuation of property increased from $4,582,000 in 1886 to $11,000,000 in 1887. Nearly 2000 substantial business houses and residences were erected during the year. The sales of real estate reached $40,000,000. The money on deposit in the two national banks is $4,000,000. All the other material interests are shown to have advanced in a corresponding degree.

What Anaheim Means.

[Anaheim New Era.]

The Los Angeles Herald of Sunday contained a a lengthy article on Spanish and other names of places in California and their significance in the English language. In the course of the article these sentences occur: "Anaheim is partly Spanish and partly German. The word means the home of Ana." We wish to state that the name Anaheim is purely German in origin, and the town was thus named in honor of Miss Anna Fischer, who was the first white girl born in Anaheim, now residing in Los Angeles. Henry Padderatz, the genial and efficient foreman of Bennerscheidt's tin shop, was the first white boy born in Anaheim.

Hotel at Chico.

Liberal Offer of Citizens of Chico.

A First-Class Investment.

The citizens of Chico hereby announce that they will give to any one who will build a brick hotel in that city, half a block of land and $10,000 in cash. The hotel must cost at least $75,000, and must be erected on the land offered. The site selected is the most desirable in the city for the location of a first class hotel, and is of the cash value of at least $10,000.

The State has recently located a Normal School at Chico, which is now in course of erection. The city is in one of the richest and most beautiful parts of California. It is a superior point for both business and tourist travel. These, among other reasons, lead us to the conclusion that a hotel of the character indicated, at Chico, will be a safe and lucrative investment, and do continuously a large and paying business.

We respectfully request capitalists and hotel men to consider and investigate this offer. For further particulars address,

Real Estate.

SOUTH CUCAMONGA, CAL.,

The Peer of Town Sites,

Situated on the Great Sunset Route of the

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILWAY,

About

Forty Miles East From Los Angeles.

Among the coming towns of Southern California, no town has been laid out on a more substantial scale with a view to future growth and prosperity than South Cucamonga, San Bernardino county, Cal.

Its location is one of the most charming in the

GREAT CUCAMONGA VALLEY,

Situated on the gently sloping plain, at an altitude of 952 feet above sea level, and within full view of the grandly towering peaks of the magnificent Sierra Madre range. Old Baldy, with his superb height of 9000 feet and heavy, snow-crowned tops, and Cucamonga, with its grand height of 7000 feet, together look down in majesty on the lovely valley at their feet, where, in most charming contrast, may be seen, far as the eye can roam, orchards of orange, lemon, lime and olive, and vineyards laden with semi-tropical fruits, and fields clad with verdure and laden with perfume.

About three miles to the west may be seen the flourishing town and colony of Ontario; to the northwest, about the same distance, the old, world-renowned Cucamonga vineyard; to the north, the fine new town of North Cucamonga; to the northeast is the village of Etiwanda, and to the southeast, Riverside, Colton and San Bernardino, and immediately to the southwest is the rich and prolific Chino ranch. South Cucamonga being the great central point.

The climate of any section being dependent largely in distance from the sea coast, altitude of surface, relation to mountains, and general topography and contour. These conditions are perhaps as nearly perfect in Cucamonga as can be found anywhere in the world. The distance from the sea coast assures freedom from fog-laden sea breezes, while the atmosphere is so pure, dry and exhilerating that those suffering from asthmatic and pulmonary troubles find it most invigorating and health restoring.

The water supply is inexhaustible, and, being from never-failing mountain springs, is absolutely pure. It is conducted in iron pipes, which are already laid throughout the streets of the town.

The soil is superior and rich sedimentary deposit, of extraordinary depth, is loose and easily worked, and retains moisture for a great length of time, requiring very little irrigation. Those who are thoroughly competent to judge have pronounced Cucamonga, taking soil and climate together, to be far superior to the famous Duarte and Riverside orange belt for raising oranges, lemons, etc., while it is entirely free from scale. The company also offers lands in 10, 20 and 40-acre tracts, with water, adjoining the town site of South Cucamonga.

No new town in Southern California has brighter prospects for becoming a railroad center than South Cucamonga. Already it has two great continental lines, the Southern Pacific forming the boundary line to the South, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe a short distance to the North, with two projected lines—one to Riverside and another to Salt Lake City.

A fine new passenger and freight depot, just completed by the Southern Pacific Railway, adds greatly to the comfort of travelers and general attractions. Over thirty trains pass through Cucamonga daily.

To secure the comfort of visitors, the fine new hotel belonging to the company has been opened under the management of a thoroughly competent hotel man. No expense has been spared in the appointments and furnishing to make it first-class in every respect, while the rates will always be reasonable

The grounds surrounding the hotel and in the park adjoining have been tastefully laid out with all kinds of tropical shrubbery, everplaying fountains, etc., by an experienced landscape gardener, and over 20,000 trees have been planted in the streets of the town.

A sojourn at this pleasant hotel, where within easy reach are the picturesque mountain trains, the grandly beautiful cañon and irresistably charming scenery of mountain, glen and valley, will be found vastly conducive to health and happiness.

is no new town in the midst of an unpopulated district, but is right in the center of the finest improved portion of the Great Cucamonga Valley, and is bound to become a business center.

Owing to its great richness the soil produces the finest oranges and lemons grown in the State, peaches, apples, pears, figs, almonds and walnuts and the finest of wine and raisin grapes. As proof of the great fertility of this section the old Cucamonga vineyard (one of the oldest and finest in the State), adjoining Cucamonga, may be mentioned. The wines produced there having a world-renowned celebrity.

Freight received at South Cucamonga depot, for the year 1887, amounts to the enormous sum of 5,328,375 pounds; shipments from said depot for the same period 2,030,625 pounds, thus showing the importance of this rapidly-growing locality as a shipping point for the surrounding country.

A first-class livery stable will be opened immediately.

Telegraph, postoffice and express offices are already established, and the company intends shortly to erect a number of fine stores, private residences, and also contemplate the erection of a fine bank building. Lots have been set aside for school and church purposes, park and hotel grounds have been tastefully laid out, and over 20,000 trees planted on the streets of the town.

The lots are all good and perfectly level, and the company have placed them on the market at the lowest possible price, in order to enable those buying to realize a handsome profit within a short space of time. Compared with surrounding towns, there are no prices as low. In Ontario, the nearest town on the west, similarly situated lots are now selling at from $1000 to $4000.

A town backed by the extensive influence of prominent railroad officials, and such representative men as H. M. Hellman, W. H. Goucher, C. F. Smurr, T. B. Henry, John E. Jackson, A. A. Staunton, H. M. Russell etc., whose determination is to make it one of the most prosperous towns in Southern California, is assured.

The Cucamonga Land and Improvement Company, during the last few months, have been sparing no expense in improving and beautifying this splendid property and getting it ready for sale and being now assured of its great success as the coming town between Los Angeles and San Bernardino, have formally announced it on the market.

As the date of sale commences at 9 o'clock a.m. on and after

at the company's office, 139½ West First street, Los Angeles, as well as through the agency of all reliable real-estate firms in the city and throughout Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties. Intending purchasers should not miss this opportunity to get in early and secure their lots at the first prices of the company.

Prohibition and Female Suffrage.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Let us premise that the writer is in favor of prohibition and female suffrage in the highest sense of these terms. Not that he is a fanatic, as most converts are, for he is a convert to both causes, though not a recent one. There was a time in his callow youth when he used to declare, in the full experience of 20 years, that he was "temperate but not a nuisance," and that "women ought to keep their places," meaning thereby that they ought to stay at home and mind their babies (whether they had any or not).

In remembering with shame the sentiments he then expressed, he is grown to no doubtful zeal within the next decade or two; should he live so long, he may feel called upon to cry peccavi for many of the things he now considers virtues, and abjure as heresies some of the opinions he now deems most orthodox.

Therefore he does not denounce all those who differ from him on the question of prohibition and woman's rights as fundrels. Even that dreaded bugaboo, the saloon-keeper, does not present to him perhaps too lax vision the harrible aspect of a moral Caliban. In fact, he with his enthusiasm will carry him with the strongest in admiration of the cause, yet when it comes to meeting its enemies, he finds himself lamentably deficient in the power to do it in a manner to satisfy Dr. Johnson.

Neither does he, though yielding to none in admiration of the sex, believe that all women are perfect and all men devils.

He even indulges in the very heretical notion that whisky and wine were intended for, and at times do, good. That tobacco does not necessarily, when indulged in in this world, take the place of an undress rehearsal of the burning of brimstone and the gnashing of teeth promised to the unrighteous in the next. The reader has, however, full permission to vent his scorn on that filthy habit of tobacco chewing, as this is not one of the sins the writer "has a mind to," but, let him whisper it in your ear, gentle or simple reader, he sometimes smokes, and he is ready to be judged, condemned, and his offending pipe annihilated, if the judges will only be logical and use as the weapons of destruction their coffee and tea cups when they undertake to make an "Aunt Sally" of his pipe.

At this time, perhaps, the reader will say to her or himself, "this is a fraud and no Prohibitionist," but he is wrong. What the writer thinks of the matter is simply this: That the good that may be in the use of alcohol is so overborne by the evils that it causes, the horrible flood of crime, vice, poverty and all the concommitant misery that it superinduces, that while he likes its flavor, and in his own person has never experienced any of its evil consequences, he has, without any formal pledge, abstained from its use for many years, and is ready at all times, by vote or otherwise, to assist in its extirpation from the face of the globe. The only way that seems likely to attain this end is the total abolition of the manufacture of this article by the means of a constitutional amendment forbidding distillation. And should the arts suffer, as will be argued, let them; or tax the native genius of Edison to find a substitute to take the place of that which is now destroying the only use part, the happiness of a large percentage of the human race. Does it seem impossible, in this age of new discoveries, to find it; or else to mix with all the alcohol (which should, if sold, be manufactured by the Government alone) some deadly poison, or some substance so disgusting in flavor as to deter men from imbibing the person's stuff. The latter remedy, in many cases, would doubtless fail; for it can be authentically proved that men have drank a mixture of Jamaica ginger, sarsaparilla, pain-killer, red ink and Florida water as a substitute for whisky.

But what are the prospects of an early realization of this scheme? Blue, very blue! As blue as the badge its devotees sport. Alas! look at Texas, Georgia, at Oregon, etc. When will people be convinced that the cause is right! That time looks very distant. St. John (all honor to him) says there was a time when the cause of emancipation looked as dark. True, very true. But then, although there was a large majority of the people who did not dare to face the issue, there were only a few, and those confined to the North of the country where slaves were property, who in their hearts believed in its maintenance; whereas, rum's dominion is ubiquitous; the passion is in the individual, and not in the outer circumstances. And those who would be saved must by its success are deprived of a vote.

And now we come to the point to which all this preliminary verbal canter tends. But before we enter on it we wish to say that we should have viewed a peaceable solution of the question of slavery, and compensation to the slaveholder had it been possible, and equally wish those whom the abolition of the manufacture of alcohol will injure, compensated. But we reserve this phase of the question for future discussion.

When St. John, lecturing in Los Angeles, argued in very forcible language the necessity of forming a third party, his logic seemed most conclusive until, impelled perhaps by his native gallantry, he said: "If the ladies had votes prohibition would be carried at the first election."

Why not, therefore, make the third party a woman's suffrage one, or at least unite the two, Woman's Suffrage and Prohibition, in the one platform, and keep the former at the head?

When an army meets a river which is unfordable it builds a number of pontoon bridges; it does not try to swim across against the current; and when we find the current of corruption too strong for our forces to stem, why let us throw the bridge of woman's suffrage across the muddy torrent, and, reënforced by such an accession of strength, bear down all opposition.

It is only necessary for women to use their minds that they want, want badly, to get a vote; and who can prevent them? There is no human living who cannot influence at least one male animal, many of them a great many more, but at least one. You know that "every Jack has his Jill." And that "there never lived a goose so rude, etc., but what some gander could be persuaded to vote just as she would."

Now politics is a filthy business and that we need the brooms and scrubbing brushes of our good wives and clean-hearted daughters to sweep out and wash it into some semblance of purity.

When men use such arguments they condemned by their own witnesses. After 6000 years of rule, they confess failures in the political arena can be purchased at the cost of soiled honor; of wading to reach high places, of miscalled of trust, through a sea of filth and corruption, then it is time that they step down for a term and give some one else a chance. Even we of the Republican party will acknowledge that 25 years of rule made that party more or less corrupt, and that when the great cause that called it into existence had been achieved, the defeat of its candidate at the last election was not an unmixed evil; and the strongest Republicans indulge in the hope that its future career will be marked by the taking up of some of the burning issues of the day, and the leaving out of the question the mere fight for power and place.

Foremost among these questions is woman suffrage; and if the party which freed the colored slave will only break the shackles of the white slave whom we pretend to love so much, and are so tender of her interests that we will not let the breath of the polluting cesspool of politics, which is not, in our opinion, too rank to be incense to the nostrils of her lord and master, touch her fair form; the Republican party, we say, will have given itself a new lease, and what is better, gained for itself an immortality of glory, before which that attained by its destruction of African slavery will sink into insignificance.

But enough for once; (the Editor of THE TIMES permitting) the subject will be resumed at a future period by

TARA.

He Yearns for the "Mirror."

MENIFEE (San Diego County, Cal.), Jan. 5.—[To the Editor of the MIRROR.] Find space in the columns of the MIRROR for a few remarks from one of your old subscribers, and a brief description of our most lovely valley.

Over four years ago I lived in Central Illinois. I had suffered from sunstroke, so much so that I was unable to work in the sun at all for 10 years. My attention was called to the wonderful climate of California. I wrote to a Republican friend of mine, Dr. Hunt, who had moved from Illinois to Los Angeles. He referred me to the MIRROR as being a reliable paper. I sent $1, took the paper, and then, at the expiration of that time, I was able to walk to the MIRROR office and renew my subscription in person. I sent many copies to my friends East, and, in most cases, it has been instrumental in bringing them thither, and there are now 34 in number here in this valley from my little town in Illinois. All seem to be well satisfied, and well they may be, for we certainly have one among the finest valleys in Southern California, and I have not suffered from my former disease since I came here. We came here in May, 1884. Then everything was new and untried. We took Government land. I have a homestead that I took at that time. I could now get $50 per acre for it. The valley is all taken up in large ranches, but there is now a move made to subdivide three sections into 5 and 10-acre lots, and throw it on the market. I know of no such chances in California for capitalists, as we raise good barley and corn, potatoes, melons, fruit trees and grapevines, all without irrigation. Our whole valley is richly supplied with well water of the very best quality, obtained at a depth of from 5 to 25 feet, and the adjoining hills are abounding with flowing springs, also deer, quail, rabbits, ducks and geese. Send on the MIRROR as usual; we cannot keep house without it; it is part of our regular food, for we believe in free trade between our lovely valley and the queen city, Los Angeles; but, when we get to the border of the United States territory, our large heart ceases to throb for free trade, for we have home industries to protect.

We have had, all told, up to this present date (January 5th) 6¼ inches of rain. Grain everywhere looks well. There is a large acreage of barley sown. In my next I will try to give exact figures.

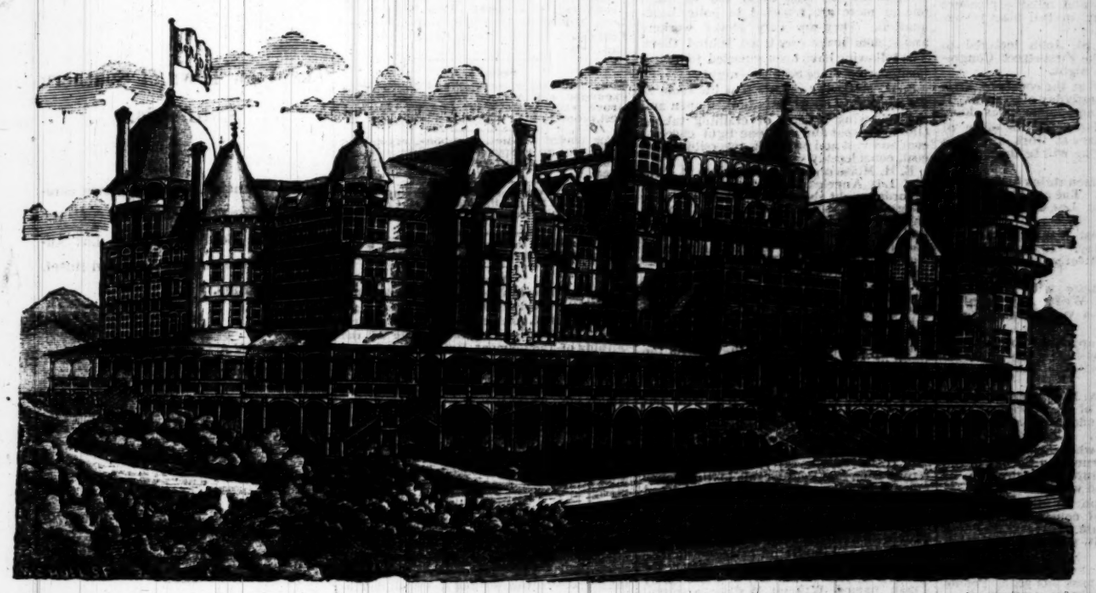
The Gem of the Continent!



Maps will be ready in a few days, and sale of lots to subscribers commenced, of which due notice will be given. Only a portion of the property will be sold this season and more than half of this portion has been subscribed for. The balance reserved until hotel and other improvements near completion. Parties wishing lots should get their signatures on the list at once. Wharf has been contracted for. Railroad from Inglewood to Redondo Beach now being built. Look out for important announcements to be made public in a few days relative to this place as a commercial harbor second to none on the coast. Parties who subscribe for lots now will soon realize their great value.

REDONDO BEACH.

SIXTEEN MILES SOUTHWEST OF THE CITY OF LOS ANGELES, IS without doubt the finest place on the continent for a seaside resort, and the enterprising company is doing all that ample means and broad ideas suggest to fully realize the grand results that nature has made possible. Two miles of water front aligned like a half-moon bay, of which the northern horn is occupied by a remarkably fine pebble beach, the southern part by the very best bathing beach anywhere to be enjoyed, while the middle portion is an abrupt shingled shore, bordering water so very deep that the largest ships may lie free from ground-swell within a stone's throw of land. Rising behind this frontage a peculiarly beautiful rolling land is backed by low but commanding hills, something less than a mile from shore and in amphitheatre form, so that the place is a panorama unto itself from every point of view. The higher grounds look back upon the city of Los Angeles and the Sierra Madre range, and the ocean view in the opposite direction is set between rocky headlands that hold it as in a frame for the outlook of the surroundings.

A salt-spring lake, half a mile in length, whose waters are much more dense than those of the sea, presents opportunities for quiet boating and peculiarly healthful bathing not paralleled at other places. The soils are remarkably fertile; the fresh water supply, to be piped throughout the tract, is pure and abundant, and the sub-soils are open and absorptive. So that beautifying of grounds is of easy accomplishment, and the healthfulness of the place is assured. A hotel of the most ample dimensions, picturesque effects and perfect appointments is to be built adjoining the beach, on a site terraced to the water-front promenade, and flanked by a park which extends to the bathing beach on one hand and on the other to the IRON PIER, costing over $100,000, reaching into deep water and arranged for landing of boats of every description, from the mosquito yacht to the trans-ocean clipper.

THE CHAUTAUQUA ASSEMBLY—Grounds for the accommodation of the Chautauqua Assembly of Southern California have been set aside, and here the management are about to build an amphitheatre and other permanent structures.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

All of the courts will be in full blast today.

The Carleton Opera Company will leave for San Francisco this afternoon.

All of the parks and outside pleasure resorts were running in full blast yesterday.

Ex-Gov. John P. St. John lectured to the young folks at the First-street Congregational Church last night.

A water pipe broke at the corner of First and Spring streets yesterday afternoon. It was repaired before any damage was done.

All of the candidates for the office of Chief of Police are hard at work, and each one is confident that he will be the successful man.

The snow on the mountains disappeared yesterday afternoon. The chill has not yet left the streets of Los Angeles, however.

There were a great many fine turnouts on the street yesterday. It was beautiful overhead, and frightfully muddy underfoot.

The Heine Quartette will give their second recital next Wednesday evening. They have prepared a very attractive programme.

Edgar Briggs will appear at Armory Hall this evening, and will give his views on orchards and lands between San Diego and Siskiyou counties.

Last Saturday A. A. Bermudez, a nephew of Judge Bermudez, of the Supreme Bench of Louisiana, died suddenly. His funeral will take place today.

The young man who was accidentally shot by Sackett Cornell, on the day of the Los Angeles Furniture Company fire, is slowly improving and will recover.

The damage done to the Y.M.C.A. building, in course of construction on Fort street, by the late rain, is greater than was at first supposed. It will probably reach $1500.

The vaccination tent on Fort street is not doing a rushing business this year. People who have no business in the northern citrus belt are not anxious to carry their arms in slings.

The police have but little to do these nights, as it is too cold for drunks to get out, and they are the only kind of cattle the police seem to have a weakness for at the present time.

Louis Righter Brown, a member of the senior class at Yale University, died at Seneca Falls, N. Y., January 7, 1888. Deceased was a brother of C. H. and E. B. Brown of this city.

It is reported that there is a surplus of laborers in the small towns around the city. They were attracted to the places when railroad work was in progress, and are now without anything to do.

Five stray horses and three vehicles, which have been picked up by the police on the streets, are in the city pound awaiting their owners. One of the rigs is quite a valuable one, worth between $400 and $500.

Judge Sawyer of San Francisco will preside over the United States Circuit Court in this city today. The calendar is quite a long one, and it will probably take him several weeks to dispose of the business of that court.

Prof. Bornemann made his first appearance in Los Angeles yesterday morning. He rendered Cherubim's "Ave Maria" in a masterly style. The professor has a good voice, and is a thorough master of his profession.

Five hundred dollars reward has been offered by the Board of Underwriters for the arrest and conviction of the fire-bugs who burned the O. K. stables on the morning of December 30th, 1887, at 3 o'clock. The reward holds good for six months.

The Police Commissioners are thinking about looking after some of the high-toned dives on Main and Spring streets. Several of these places are conducted, in the neighborhood of the front door, in such an outrageous manner that a lady cannot pass along the sidewalk without being insulted.

A young reporter on an evening paper, noted for his extensive wardrobe and Chesterfieldian manners, yesterday afternoon attempted to play policeman at the New United States Hotel, but was done up by a one-legged man whom he attempted to take in.

The City Police Court is in hot water. The people elected Constable Ed Smith to look after that court, and it is his duty to appoint a bailiff, which he has done. The police department has appointed a police officer to do the same work. This step will force the city to pay two salaries for one man's work. The police department is becoming more and more demoralized each day.

Complaint was made at the police station yesterday afternoon that there was a disturbance at 23 West Third street, and an officer was sent to the place to see what was the matter. It turned out to be a couple of drunken lodgers in the house, who were having a good time. They were got out before any damage was done.

The Chief of Police has sent out a circular giving a full list of the articles stolen from the Hammam Baths, with a description of each. These circulars have been sent to the chiefs of police of every city of any size on the coast, and also to a number of the leading responsible detective agencies. In the meantime a close watch is being kept on the various pawnshops and second-hand stores in this city, but so far nothing has been offered for sale.

The City Council will convene this morning at 10 o'clock. The election of a Chief of Police was postponed until next Monday, but the Council may take it up today, as it is understood that they have about made up their minds to center on an Anaheim man who has had a great deal of experience on the New York police force.

A negro man made things very lively at No. 1096 Main street, Saturday night, by thrashing his wife with a buggy whip. The negroes were servants on the place, and the lady of the house telephoned police headquarters for an officer. Sergt. Jeffries went down, but the negro had fled, and has not returned since. The woman was struck over the head with the whip and badly hurt.

PERSONAL NEWS.

"Would-be Subscriber," who writes to the TIMES, is requested to send his name and address, and an effort will be made to satisfy his reasonable requirements.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

Ten-Cent Showman Maltreats a Bear and is Arrested.

Henry Hunsinger, one of the men interested in the 10-cent show on Main street, was arrested by Officer Wright of the Humane Society for cruelty to animals, and taken to the police station, where he was released on depositing $20 cash bail for his appearance this morning. For several days past complaints have been made to the officer of the inhuman treatment of a cinnamon bear, which was tied up in front of the tent, and systematically tortured by the men for the purpose of making the animal growl, thereby attracting attention and drawing a crowd. Officer Wright went down about 8 o'clock, and caught the fellow in the act. The bear would jump on the brute, worry it, and everything he could to excite its anger, and finally picked up a large canvas sign and threw it at the bear, striking it on the nose. This was too much for the officer, who immediately gathered the manager in. The young man at first declined to go with the officer, but on being told that an additional charge of resisting an officer would be entered against him if he had to be used, he caved and came with him, contenting himself with giving vent to a tongue-lashing on the way.

Schwendler, Miss Sadie Schwendler, Miss Grace Schwendler, A. M. Schwendler, Rochester, N. Y.; John Jaeger, Mrs. Jaeger, Mrs. A. C. Hardy, H. G. Clark, Pomeroy, W. W. Williamson, Palmyra, N. Y.; A. D. THIEVES.

Work Done by Them During the Past Twenty-four Hours.

There is no let up in the activity of the gang of thieves and burglars who are operating in this city and every day or night one or more are reported to police headquarters. They are very clever workers and seldom leave any trace behind them. The following have been reported to police headquarters since Saturday night:

J. D. McCarthy reports that his room at 220 South Fort street, was broken open and the following articles of clothing taken: One black coat and vest, one light checked coat and vest and one dark reversible overcoat, considerably worn.

E. H. Moise reports that his room at Fifth and Los Angeles street, was burglarized Saturday night about 11 o'clock by two men weighing about 165 pounds each and dressed in dark clothes. Both men wore masks, and one had a beard; the same man also had the forefinger off on the right hand. The men secured $27.50 in money, a $20 piece, a $5 piece and $2.50 in silver.

G. F. Roder of 490 Fort street, reports the theft of a fine red leather satchel, 20 or 22 inches in length, with two straps. The satchel contained a new silk muffler.

Mrs. Parker, who resides on Tulip street, between Sixth and Seventh, reports the theft of a valuable sorrel chestnut mare with a large scar on the left flank from a barbed wire cut, blazed face, very fat and very gentle, about 5 years old, with left hind foot white. The boards were broken off the corral. She also reports that her house was broken open a few days since, and a few small articles taken.

E. H. Davey, who arrived in this city yesterday from San Pedro, came to the police office yesterday and reported that he had been robbed of his baggage under the following circumstances: On Monday last he came from San Diego by steamer in company with a friend. Mr. Davey stopped at San Pedro and the friend came on to Los Angeles with his baggage. After the friend's arrival in this city he was seen by a man named William Walker, a mutual acquaintance, who claimed that Mr. Davey was at the depot and had sent him for his baggage. The friend let him have it and Walker has not been seen since. Mr. Davey learned these facts on his arrival here yesterday, and at once reported the facts to the police office. The goods taken by Walker are as follows: A double-barreled shotgun, with laminated steel barrels, pistol grip, English make, in fine order, stock oil finished, 10 caliber; also a russet leather satchel, nickel-trimmed, with two straps, size 16 to 18 inches, containing a shaving outfit, with a Wade & Butcher Rattler razor, and stone hone, double, white on one side, slate on the other, and a lot of underclothing and toilet articles; also a roll of blue-gray woolen blankets, 90 inches wide, rather light, done up in white canvas, nearly new; a new, large, heavy comforter, red on one side and blue on the other; a pair of new overalls and a pair of calfskin shoes. The gun had a brown canvas cover, and was worth $45. The value of the outfit was $100.

To Manufacturers.

Fairview, Los Angeles county, Cal., is destined to become the manufacturing center of Southern California. The town is situated two and one-half miles from Newport Harbor, and seven miles from Santa Ana, with which it will be connected by a motor line now building, thus giving direct connections with both the Santa Fé and Southern Pacific Railroads. Surface water is found at 20 feet, and artesian water in unlimited quantities at from 100 to 250 feet. But the main value to manufacturers lies in the fact that natural gas exists in unlimited quantities throughout this entire section. The Fairview Development Company has bored a well on the townsite, and at the depth of 347 feet a flow of water was struck equal to about 5000 gallons per hour, and with the water comes natural gas of an estimated quantity of 5000 cubic feet per hour. This gas, however, is what is called wild gas, and comes from a leak in the bed-rock, to which it will be necessary to go in order to get to the main body of gas. Experts who have examined this section thoroughly claim that as bed-rock gas will be found in unlimited quantities, and the company are now preparing to bore wells to a sufficient depth to develope gas free from water, which our well-borers guarantee as after reaching bed-rock. This discovery is one that affects the future of Southern California, as regards her manufactures, to a remarkable decree. In the East, where natural gas has been discovered and utilized as fuel, the principles of manufacturing have been completely changed and sleepy hamlets have sprung like magic into great and thriving cities. If such has been the effect in the East, what will be the result of this discovery in our great and growing country, where the scarcity and high price of fuel alone prevents the establishment of manufactures on all sides? The question of ocean-fuel satisfactorily established manufactures will pour in on us, plants of all kinds will be established, our mineral resources will be fully developed, and our future as a manufacturing State will be a pleasant one to contemplate.

The Fairview Development Company, desiring to see their land rapidly built upon and settled, will offer valuable inducements to any person or persons who will locate a plant of any kind upon their property, and they would invite inspection from all those interested in this discovery. Come out and see the gas burning and the wells being bored, and behold what is bound to be the Pittsburgh of California. The company's main office is at the Brunswick Hotel, Santa Ana, and their Los Angeles office is at 2½ West First street.

DIED.

STUART—January 4, 1888, at his home, 1½ miles west of Compton, of consumption, Mr. Sylvenus A. Stuart.

Deceased was born in Monday, Genesee county, Mich., February 18, 1861. Came to California in 1861, for his health. Was married January 29, 1882, to Minnie E. Coltrin of Compton. He then returned to Michigan for one year and took care of a brother, who was failing in health, until his death, then he returned to California and began improving his nice home, where he has since resided. He had been ailing for seven years, and knew all the time his life would be short. He bore his decline patiently, and toward the last seemed anxious to depart "from the body and to be present with the Lord." As he often told the writer, he was trusting in the Lord. Almost the last words he uttered were: "The future is very bright to me, for I am going to join father, mother and brother," gone before.

He leaves a wife, two children and one brother and a host of friends and acquaintances to mourn his departure. But we feel that what is our loss is his gain.

Funeral services were held at the residence of deceased on the 8th inst., conducted by T. R. Bowles, pastor of Baptist Church, in Compton.

BERMUDEZ—In this city, January 7th, A. A. Bermudez, a native of Louisiana, aged 54.

CAUTURE—In this city, January 7th, Laura Cauture, at 73½ San Fernando street.

Funeral today at 10 o'clock. Friends are invited to attend.

VAN LUVEN—On Sunday, January 8, 1888, at 7 o'clock p.m., of consumption, Mrs. J. A. Van Luven, aged 53 years and 10 days.

Funeral from the residence, No. 46 Sepulveda street, this (Monday) afternoon at 3 o'clock. Friends and acquaintances invited to attend.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

This has been demonstrated in thousands of cases treated by

DR. WILLIAMS,

With his new system of Medicated Inhalations combined with proper constitutional remedies for the liver, stomach, blood, etc.

Probably no system of practice ever adopted has been so universally successful as that introduced by Dr. Williams for the cure of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

Inhalations are applicable in all diseases of the respiratory organs, but must be prepared for each individual case as they severally require.

Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedies at home as well as at our office, and which will cause no inconvenience or hindrance to business whatever.

I have seen so many of these cases cured that I do not consider any case hopeless unless both lungs are seriously involved. Even then the inhalations aid us in dissolving the mucus and in contracting and healing the cavities which nothing else can do with the same success.

The very best references from those already cured.

CONSULTATION FREE.

Those who desire to consult with me in regard to their cases had better call at the office for consultation and examination, but if impossible to do so can write for a copy of my Medical Treatise, containing a list of questions. Address,

SANTA ANA.

MAMMOTH EXCURSION!

Auction Sale of the Orange Tract!

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 11, 1888.

Santa Ana is the metropolis of the finest and richest valley in California and is without question the most prosperous town today outside of Los Angeles in the State. 300 new buildings were completed last year, among them the elegant Hotel Brunswick, and the population has trebled in the same time. It is the junction of the Southern Pacific and Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroads, and two other roads are to be built at once. Two steam motor lines are now being constructed. The country tributary to Santa Ana will support a city as large as Los Angeles is at present, and property is sure to have a great advance over present prices. The Orange tract is located on Main street in the center of the fine residence section, and contains one of the most elegant and artistic villa houses in Southern California. This is truly the finest and choicest property ever offered at auction.
